THE GRANGERS.

They Meet in Annual Session, and Listen to "Talks on the Tariff."

The State Grange met in their hall on State street this morning, and organized, temporarily, by appointing S. A. Dawson, F. R. Smith, E. S. Penfield, B. W. Yeomans and Sarah E. Smith a committee on credentials, and F. C. Yeomans, David Eby and Mrs. A. Chrisman a committee on order of business.

The Grange met again this afternoon in the hall of the senate, and Governor Pennoyer made a short address of welcome and free trade combined. He proceeded to show the intelligent farmers there congregated, how they were and had been sufferers from "class legislation," as he called it, for seventy-five years. The governor told them that he was opposed to any legislation tending to restrict trade, and that he thought such legislation was repugnant to the constitution, and inimical to the general welfare. He then again welcomed the members of the organization to the capital, and took his seat amid some applause.

It was evident from the start that "class legislation," as the governor called it, or the "subject of the tariff," a name by which it has been mentioned at times in the past, was going to be the matter under consideration.

After Governor Pennoyer, whose speech at least bore one virtue—that of brevity, had subsided, Hon. John Minto arose, and began a discussion of the subject from the standpoint of a protectionist of home industries. It was evident from the way he started in, that Mr. Minto was prepared to exhaust the argument in favor of protection, and against free trade, before closing, and as the hour for the writers on this paper to "shut down on copy" had about arrived, the reporter had to forego the speeches that were to follow. After Mr. Minto, Mayor J. J. Murphy and Supt. of the Penitentiary Geo. S. Downing were expected to address the meeting.

The attendance is considered quite good, the following being the membership.

Rev. I. D. Driver was at Woodburn last night, and addressed a large house, and over 150 persons more could not get in. He discussed the third party, pretty effectually demonstrating that a moral reform could not be built up on a political platform.

A San Francisco dispatch says: "E. B. McElroy, state superintendent of public schools of Oregon, has arrived from Salem, and secured headquarters at the Occidental hotel for the Oregon teachers at the national convention to be held in July." Prof. McElroy will return home by the last of the week.

A gentleman met a JOURNAL writer on the street to-day, and accosted him with: "I see those ugly fences still remain around the public parks. I tell you, you are pursuing the proper course in regard to those matters of public improvement. Keep after 'em. They are of more importance to the people of Salem than a discussion of the tariff." It is to be hoped the city may see fit to remove those fences, or paint them up soon.

Bids Opened.

Yesterday, in the office of the secretary of state, bids for furnishing the state 255 cords of wood—150 of oak and 75 of fir—were opened by Captain Lovell and found to be as follows, Oak, per cord—Wm. Rev. C. C. Poling, the new presiding elder of the Evangelical church in this district, began his work in the new territory by holding his first quarterly meeting in this city on Sunday. Mr. Poling will go to Albany next Sunday. Mr. Poling was formerly of East Portland, and has spent the last year in Dayton. He has rented the elegant new cottage of A. T. Yeaton in North Salem, and has moved in and gotten at home. Rev. Mr. Dick, the present pastor, it is now said, will not leave Salem. Rev. Mr. Bowersox, who was transferred to be presiding elder of the Spokane Falls district, will not remove his family from this city, at least until autumn.

The Promenade Concert.

There were fully two hundred people at the armory last night, and the promenade concert and strawberry festival given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church may well be said to have been a success. The music by the Second Regiment band was very fine, and the refreshments were simply elegant. The armory was handsomely decorated, and presented a very pleasing appearance. The financial result of the entertainment was very satisfactory to its promoters.

Low Rates of Fare.

A steamboat war between the Telephone and the O. R. & N. Co's boats has cut rates from Portland to Astoria to 75 cents for single trip, and a ten days' limit round trip is being sold by the O. R.
